Acquisition Information

The Jay I. Kislak Foundation donated the Jay I. Kislak Collection to the Library of Congress in 2004, with additional materials in the form of the Carta Marina and the Schoner Sammelband donated in late 2012.

Custodial History

All the materials in the Jay I. Kislak Collection were owned either by Jay I. Kislak personally or by the Kislak Family Foundation at the time of the donation.

Processing History

Information regarding the history of the collection was provided either by the series of curators of the collection at the Library of Congress, including Arthur Dunkelman, Barbara Tenebaum and John Hessler. The collection was re-housed, examined, and photographed by the Conservation Division of the Library of Congress before it came to the Library in 2004.

Additional Description

Fuller descriptions of the Jay I. Kislak Collection have been published as:

- Hessler, John W. (2019) Collecting for a New World: Treasures of the Early Americas (London and Washington, DC: Giles Ltd. and the Library of Congress)
- Dunkelman Arthur, editor. (2007) The Jay I. Kislak Collection at the Library of Congress: a catalog of the gift of the Jay I. Kislak Foundation to the Library of Congress (Washington, DC: Library of Congress)

Transfers

In 2012, several archaeological objects were transferred back to the Kislak Foundation:

- Fragment of a Hieroglyphic Monument (Kislak PC 0016)
- Techialoyan Land Records, Multipart manuscript on amate

Related Material

The Library of Congress also holds the Jay I. Kislak Reference Collection. Several other institutions house Kislak Collection materials:

- Kislak Center at Miami Dade College, Freedom Tower, 600 Biscayne Blvd., Miami, FL 33132
- Kislak Center for Special Collections, Rare Books and Manuscripts, Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center, 3420 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104

Copyright Status

The status of copyright of the Jay I. Kislak Collection is governed by the Copyright Law of the United States (Title 17, U.S.C.).

Publication and reproduction of the Popol Vuh Paintings of Diego Rivera (The Creation, The Trails of the Hero Twins, and Human Sacrifice before Tohil) require the written consent of the Banco de Mexico Diego Rivera and Frida Kahlo Museums Trust.

Access and Restrictions

The Jay I. Kislak Collection is open to research. Researchers are advised to contact the Geography and Map Division and/or the Rare Book and Special Collections Division prior to visiting in order to determine whether the desired materials will be available at that time.

Biographical Note on the Collector

Jay I. Kislak, businessman, philanthropist, aviator and history enthusiast, was born on June 6, 1922, in Hoboken, New Jersey. He earned his first real estate license while still a high school student at Newark Academy and later earned an economics degree from the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania. Having served as a naval aviator, after the Second World War Kislak returned to New Jersey to join the real estate business his father, Julius Kislak, had founded in 1906. In 1970, the family moved the business to Miami and continued its work in multifamily and commercial real estate, asset management, and finance.

After relocating to Florida, Jay Kislak developed a passion for history and archaeology and began a more than fifty-year record of collecting and philanthropy focused on the earliest history of the Americas. During his lifetime he amassed a collection of more than four thousand rare books, manuscripts, maps, paintings and archaeological objects all related to either the Pre-Columbian Americas or to the earliest history of Europeans in the New World. The collection ranged widely, from Olmec period ceramics dating from 1000 BCE, to manuscripts from the age of exploration, and on to the founding of the United States.

Kislak over the course of his lifetime held leadership roles in many important historical organizations, including the U.S. Department of State Cultural Property Advisory Committee, the boards of trustees of the National Park Foundation, the Eisenhower Fellowships program, the Florida Historical Society, and the Historical Association of Southern Florida.

Juan Carlos I, the King of Spain from 1975 to 2014, granted Jay Kislak the prestigious Encomienda of the Order of Merit Civil for his contributions to the study of early Spanish history.

In 2004, Jay I. Kislak donated more than 3,000 individual pieces from his collection, including his reference collection, to the Library of Congress. He later founded the Kislak Center for Special Collections at the University of Pennsylvania, the Kislak Center at Miami Dade College, and the Kislak Center at the University of Miami, all dedicated to the study of rare books, manuscripts, and maps related to the history of the Americas. He died on October 3, 2018, in Miami.

Scope and Content Note

The Jay I. Kislak Collection of the Archaeology and History of the Early Americas is composed of important archaeological artifacts, rare books, manuscripts, maps, and graphic works of art, which survey the earliest history of the lands that would become known as the Americas. The dates of the collection items range from around 2000 BCE until the twenty-first century. The collection is in English, with Spanish, Dutch, German, and indigenous languages of Nahuatl, Ixil, K'iche' (Quiché), and Q'eqchi' (Kekchi). The collection is arranged in four series: Archaeological Objects, Manuscripts, Graphic Materials, and Books.

The collection includes more than 400 unique three-dimensional objects of pre-Columbian date, documenting the indigenous peoples of Mexico, the Caribbean, and Central and South America. Pre-Columbian artifacts from more than twenty indigenous cultures, including the Nahua, the Nuudzahui, the lowland and highland Maya, the Taino, the Olmec, the Wari, the Inca, and many others, give a comprehensive overview of the arts of indigenous cultures in the period before the arrival of Columbus in 1492. Notable artifacts like the Tortuguero Box, the dynastic codex-style vase with sixty hieroglyphs, and the carved ballplayer relief panel from the ruined Maya city of La Corona are primary sources documenting the language, customs, religion and rituals of the peoples of the Americas.

The Kislak manuscript and rare book collection contains almost one thousand historically important manuscripts. Examples include writings in the hands of Philip II, King of Spain; conquistadors Hernán Cortés and Francisco Pizarro; Bartolomé de Las Casas; and other individuals prominent in the earliest history of Europeans in the Americas, as well as figures of special significance in the founding and early years of the United States. The latter includes the 1762 diary of George Washington; correspondence of John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, and Thomas Jefferson; drafts of the Anglo-American Treaty of 1806 along with related papers including the correspondence of James Monroe, William Pinkney, Henry Richard Vassall, Baron Holland, and William Eden, Baron Auckland; and documents pertaining to the history of Florida in the nineteenth century. Other notable manuscripts include the field notes of an unknown priest who traveled through the Guatemalan highlands in the mid-sixteenth century and translated prayers, Bible passages, and lists of numbers and important days in the calendar into the indigenous languages of Ixil, K'iche' (Quiché), and Q'eqchi' (Kekchi).

These manuscripts, along with rare books such as the earliest dictionary of the indigenous language of Nahuatl, the Vocabulario en lengua castellana y mexicana (1571) by Alonso de Molina, and the Historia de Nueva-Espana, printed in Mexico City in 1770, by Francisco Antonio Lorenzana y Butron, as well as early printed archaeological tracts like the Descripcion Historica y Cronologica de las Dos Piedras (1792) by Antonio de León y Gama, made it one of the most comprehensive collections of historical materials relating to the period immediately after the arrival in the Americas of Europeans in private hands at the time of its donation to the Library of Congress.

Graphic materials contained in the collections include three important watercolor paintings of scenes from the Popol Vuh, a text recounting the Maya creation by the Mexican artist Diego Rivera, a series of eight large paintings of the conquest and the defeat of Montezuma II, the Aztec emperor of Mexico, by an unknown indigenous artist, and early photography of archaeological sites by Désiré Charnay. Important maps like those of Baptista Boazio illustrating the voyages of Sir Francis Drake and the Carta marina navigatoria Portugallen navigations atque tocius cogniti orbis terre marisque, 1516, by the mapmaker Martin Waldseemüller, are significant historical artifacts that round out the collection's holdings.

Series

Archaeological Objects, BCE 2000-CE 1700

Unique three-dimensional objects of pre-Columbian date, documenting the indigenous peoples of Mexico, the Caribbean, and Central and South America. The descriptions of pre-Columbian materials in this finding aid are, in many cases, donor provided descriptions and have not been verified by the Library of Congress.

Material types include amulets, pendants, and other jewelry; bowls, vases, urns and other vessels; figurines, flasks, flints, plaques, and relief carvings.

Arranged by accession number.

Objects in this series are held in the Geography and Map Division. Researchers are advised to contact the Division prior to visiting in order to determine whether the desired materials will be available at that time.

Manuscripts, 1501-1998

Historical materials primarily relating to the period immediately after the arrival in the Americas of Europeans.

Material types include appointments, bank drafts, court documents, diaries, field notes, land grants, letters, logbooks, resolutions, sailing orders, sea journals, tracts, and wills.

Grouped alphabetically into four subseries: Andrew Jackson letters; Anglo-American Treaty of 1806 archive; Collection of Florida history; and General manuscript collection, and alphabetically by title therein. Arrangement within each subseries is alphabetical by author.

Manuscripts in this series are held in the Rare Book and Special Collections Division.

Researchers are advised to contact the Division prior to visiting in order to determine whether the desired materials will be available at that time.

Andrew Jackson Letters, 1818-1880

Manuscripts, 1501-1998

Location: Rare Book and Special Collections Division, Library of Congress
Historical materials primarily relating to the period immediately after the arrival in the Americas of Europeans.
Material types include appointments, bank drafts, court documents, diaries, field notes, land grants, letters, logbooks, resolutions, sailing orders, sea journals, tracts, and wills.
Grouped alphabetically into four subseries: Andrew Jackson letters; Anglo-American Treaty of 1806 archive; Collection of Florida history; and General manuscript collection, and alphabetically by title therein. Arrangement within each subseries is alphabetical by author.
Manuscripts in this series are held in the Rare Book and Special Collections Division.
Researchers are advised to contact the Division prior to visiting in order to determine whether the desired materials will be available at that time.

Graphic Materials, 1516-1931

Locations: Geography and Map Division, Library of Congress; Rare Book and Special Collections Division, Library of Congress

Graphic materials include three important watercolor paintings of scenes from the Popol Vuh, the creation myth of the ancient Quiché Maya, by the Mexican artist Diego Rivera; a series of eight large paintings of the conquest and the defeat of Montezuma II, the Aztec emperor of Mexico, by an unknown indigenous artist; and early photography of archaeological sites by Désiré Charnay. Also included are important maps like those of Baptista Boazio illustrating the voyages of Sir Francis Drake and the Carta marina navigatoria Portugallen navigationis atque tocius cogniti orbis terre marisque, 1516, by the mapmaker Martin Waldseemüller.

Material types include maps, paintings, and photographs.

Arranged alphabetically by creator or title.

Graphic materials in this series are held in the Geography and Map Division and in the Rare Book and Special Collections Division. Researchers are advised to contact the appropriate division prior to visiting in order to determine whether the desired materials will be available at that time.

Eight detailed canvases by an unknown artist painting in Mexico tell the story of the 1521 Spanish conquest of the native Aztec people. These images highlight battles between the Spanish and the Aztecs, ceremonial encounters of the Spanish conquistador with the emperor Moctezuma, and other pivotal historic moments:

1. The Entrance of Cortes into Tabasco
2. The Arrival of Cortes at Veracruz and the Reception of Moteuhzoma's Ambassadors
3. The Meeting of Cortes and Moteuhzoma
4. The Death Moteuhzoma at the Hands of His Own People
5. The Sad Night
6. The Battle of Outmba
7. The Conquest of Tenochitlan
8. The Capture of Cuauhtemoc
