Acquisition Information

Records of the Library of Congress were first transferred to the Library of Congress Archives in the Manuscript Division in 1897 and continue to the present. Material has also been received through gift and purchase.

Processing History

Arrangement and description of these records began in the 1940s and is ongoing. This document is a compilation of previous finding aids and includes material added to the Library of Congress Archives since the 1990s.

Additional Guides

Finding aids are available in the Manuscript Division reading room. This guide is a listing of all the series of the Library of Congress Archives, with links to digital finding aids when available.

Related Material

The Manuscript Division holds papers of librarians of Congress, senior Library staff members, papers of leaders in the library field, and records of scholarly associations.

Copyright Status

The status of copyright in the unpublished records of the Library of Congress is governed by the Copyright Law of the United States (Title 17, U.S.C.).

Access and Restrictions

Restrictions apply governing the use, photoduplication, or publication of items in this collection. Consult reference staff in the Manuscript Division for information concerning these restrictions. In addition, many collections are stored off-site and advance notice is needed to retrieve these items for research use.

Security Classified Documents

Government regulations control the use of security classified material in this collection. Manuscript Division staff can furnish information concerning access to and use of classified materials.

Microfilm

Microfilm on 335 reels comprises part of the Library of Congress Archives and is listed and described in this finding aid. This microfilm is not available for interlibrary loan.

Online Content

Selected items are available through the Library of Congress Web site under the title, "Freedom's Fortress: the Library of Congress, 1939-1953," at <https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mss/collmss.ms000001>.

Preferred Citation

Researchers wishing to cite this collection should include the following information: Container number, Series name, Library of Congress Archives, Manuscript Division, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.

Scope and Content Note

The Library of Congress Archives are the collected records of the Library of Congress that are administered by the Manuscript Division. Beginning in 1897, with the establishment of a separate department for manuscript materials, letterbooks, borrowing ledgers, and other documentary material from offices throughout the Library have been transferred to and made available in the Manuscript Division's reading room. The archives also include papers donated by Library of Congress staff members. In a few cases, the Manuscript Division has purchased material for retention in the archives. The archives include eighty-three individual groups or series of records that document the activities, staff, and collections of the Library of Congress. Highlights include correspondence and a borrowing register that date to the Library's founding in 1800, as well as miscellaneous records, correspondence, and ledgers that document the period when the Library was located in the U.S. Capitol. Librarians' outgoing correspondence is contained in 723 volumes of letterbooks, 1843-1954, of which the first twenty-nine volumes (1843-1899) are available on microfilm. Librarian of Congress Herbert Putnam instituted more organized record keeping measures beginning in 1899. The Central File series, 1897-1954, includes records that document the major activities and initiatives of the Librarian's office. Records of the Order Division and the Exchange and Gift Division document acquisitions by purchase, donation, and transfer from the 1890s to the mid-20th century. Other key activities are chronicled in the Keeper of Collections series, 1900-1971, and the records of the Exhibits Office from 1940-1984.

Arrangement of the Library of Congress Archives

This collection is grouped in eighty-three series according to the source of the material. Arranged alphabetically by title of series.
