Provenance

The papers of Nathanael Greene, army officer, were acquired by the Library of Congress by gift and purchase from various sources between 1908 and 1979. In 1920 the Library of Congress purchased a number of Nathanael Greene items from Peyton Skipwith, Jr., which apparently had first belonged to his grandmother, Cornelia Peyton Skipwith, Greene's second daughter. These documents, which make up the bulk of the Library's collection, had suffered water damage as the result of a shipwreck shortly before the Civil War. The Library has also acquired a number of smaller accessions including three Greene letterbooks, two of which are part of the Peter Force Collection, received in 1867, and various reproductions of Greene material from private and institutional collections.

Processing History

The Greene Papers were organized and microfilmed in part in 1966. In 1976 the collection was organized for further microfilming and a new guide prepared. The finding aid was revised and an item that had previously been cataloged separately was added to the collection in 2003.

Related Material

Other Nathanael Greene items in the Manuscript Division are located in the papers of James Abeel, William Bond, the Campbell-Preston-Floyd Family, the Marquis de Lafayette, James McHenry, the McLane Family (within the Alexander Hamilton Papers), the Comte de Rochambeau, and the Polk Family. There is also Greene material in the Peter Force Collection, both as a separate listing and as part of the John Davis Papers (Series VIIID) and the papers or records (Series VII: Transcripts) of William Alexander, Joseph V. Bevan, Silas Deane, Mordecai Gist, Samuel Gray, Peter Horry, New Jersey, Arthur St. Clair, South Carolina, John Sullivan, and Jonathan Trumbull. Additional Greene items in the Library are identified in Manuscript Sources in the Library of Congress for Research on the American Revolution (Washington, Library of Congress, 1975. 372 pp.), compiled by John R. Sellers et al.

Copyright Status

The status of copyright in the unpublished writings of Nathanael Greene is governed by the Copyright Law of the United States (Title 17, U.S.C.).

Scope and Content Note

The papers of Nathanael Greene (1742-1786) span the years 1775-1785 and consist of originals and reproductions of correspondence, a letterbook, reports, orders and resolutions, proclamations, petitions, certificates, instructions, a commission, a will, and miscellaneous items.

The papers document Greene's military career, especially his involvement in the Continental Army's Southern Campaign. There are reconnaissance reports, accounts of battles and skirmishes, reports and instructions from Congress, lists of militia, and returns on casualties, supplies, and reinforcements. Included is Marquis Charles Cornwallis Cornwallis's plan for creating a loyalist militia in South Carolina, dated June 4, 1780; Daniel Morgan's report, January 19, 1781, on the victory at Cowpens, South Carolina, two days earlier; reports of the casualties at Guilford Court House near Greensboro, North Carolina, on March 15, 1781; and correspondence with British officers in Charleston on the treatment of prisoners, 1780-1783.

Letters from George Washington describe the status and progression of the war, and letters of 1779 from William Smallwood, Arthur St. Clair, Anthony Wayne, and other Continental officers respond to Greene's inquiry into the propriety of holding more than one commission at the same time. There is also material on negotiations with the Indians, particularly the Cherokee and Chickasaw, including a contemporary copy of the 1781 Cherokee treaty; captured enemy dispatches; and messages of gratitude and congratulations to Greene delivered during his trip north in 1783. Additional correspondents include Marquis Charles Cornwallis Cornwallis, Thaddeus Kosciusko, John Laurens, Alexander Leslie, Francis Marion, Daniel Morgan, William Moultrie, Israel Putnam, John Rutledge, and John Sevier.

The letterbooks, October 1780-April 1782, contain copies of official correspondence from Greene as commander in chief of the Southern Department. Addressed chiefly to officers under Greene's command, the letters relate principally to military strategy, supplies, and administrative matters. Recipients include Thomas Burke, John Butler, Arthur Campbell, Richard Caswell, John Gunby, John Hanson, Benjamin Harrison, Isaac Huger, Samuel Huntington, Thomas Jefferson, Thomas Sim Lee, John A. Lillington, Francis Marion, Alexander Martin, John Mathews, Daniel Morgan, Robert Morris, Abner Nash, Jean-Baptiste-Donatien de Vimeur comte de Rochambeau, Baron Friedrich Wilhelm Ludolf Gerhard Augustin von Steuben, Jethro Sumner, Thomas Sumter, George Washington, and Anthony Wayne.
