Scope and Content Note

The journals and logbooks of the sloop of war Ontario and schooner Dolphin span the years 1817-1821 and consist mainly of accounts relating to the Ontario under the command of Captain James Biddle, with first lieutenant David Conner, on a pioneer mission to the Pacific in defense of American shipping in early 1818, from New York to Rio de Janeiro, around Cape Horn to Valparaíso, Chile, and Lima, Peru, during the Chilean War of Independence and a Spanish blockade. The Ontario journals describe in detail the political situation in Chile as well as the geographical and cultural setting. The journal for the Dolphin, dated September 30-December 30, 1821, is a four-page insertion in an otherwise undated fragment of a journal relating to the Ontario. The Dolphin sailed to the coasts of Ecuador, Peru, and Chile in December 1821 as part of the newly organized Pacific Squadron under the command of Lieutenant David Conner, in company with ship-of-the-line Franklin.
