Scope and Content Note

The papers of David Stephen Tatel (1942- ) span the years 1871-2014, with the bulk of the material dating from 1994 to 2014. The collection primarily documents Tatel's career as a judge on the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit from 1994 to 2014. Also represented are papers relating to Tatel's tenure as Director of the Office for Civil Rights for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, his private law practices in Chicago, Illinois, and Washington, D.C., and his activities with various legal and educational organizations. The papers are in English and organized into the following five series: Office for Civil Rights, United States Court of Appeals: Case File, Speeches and Writings File, Miscellany, and Closed.

The collection provides a comprehensive account of Tatel's jurisprudence as a judge for the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit and his career as a lawyer, where he was known especially for his education and civil rights work. As a federal judge, Tatel heard appeals from the district court of the District of Columbia and from federal administrative agencies with many cases relating to constitutional and administrative law that often had national implications. The papers also document Tatel's career prior to his judgeship with files pertaining to his service as Director of the Office for Civil Rights during the administration of President Jimmy Carter; as a lawyer in Chicago, Illinois, engaged in civil rights work at Sidley & Austin, the Chicago Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, and the Chicago Riot Study Committee; and his tenure as an attorney at Hogan & Hartson in Washington, D.C., focusing especially on education issues; his endeavors with organizations such as the National Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law (known as the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law), and general counsel of the Legal Services Corporation; and his mediation of a dispute between special education students and the public school system of Baltimore, Maryland.

The collection series are listed and briefly described below. A fuller description of each series and a list of its contents can be accessed in the series descriptions within the container list.

The Office for Civil Rights series features administrative and legal files pertaining to Tatel's activities to enforce federal civil rights laws as Director for the Office for Civil Rights (OCR) for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) during the Carter administration.

The United States Court of Appeals: Case File, documenting Tatel's judicial service from the 1994 to the 2013 terms, reflects the variety of issues heard by the Court including civil rights, federalism, environmental law, civil liberties, national security, and regulatory and labor law.

The Speeches and Writings File reflects Tatel's interest in civil rights and school desegregation.

The Miscellany series covers Tatel's career as a lawyer in private practice and his involvement with several legal and educational organizations.

Arrangement of the Collection

This collection is arranged in five series:

Description of Series

Container
BOX 1-19

Series
Office for Civil Rights, 1961-1981

The Office for Civil Rights series features administrative and legal files pertaining to Tatel's activities to enforce federal civil rights laws as Director for the Office for Civil Rights (OCR) for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) during the Carter administration. The administrative files include memoranda to the Under Secretary of HEW, weekly early warning reports identifying civil rights issues of priority, and briefing material, consisting mainly of reports, statements and memoranda, evaluating the Office's performance. The majority of the series documents the OCR's efforts to desegregate state higher education systems in North Carolina, Oklahoma, and Virginia. Administrative enforcement proceedings were initiated against North Carolina for not taking action to change its dual systems. In 1978 HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. accepted a desegregation plan by North Carolina officials. Tatel felt the plan did not adequately meet the requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act and considered resigning. The files include a draft letter of resignation about the matter that Tatel did not send. Also present in the Office for Civil Rights series are papers pertaining to the racial desegregation of primary and secondary schools in Chicago, Illinois, and New York, New York. Papers for the majority of the series consist mostly of photocopies rather than original items.

Material types include correspondence, memoranda, briefing books and briefing papers, reports, plans, legislative testimony, deposition transcripts, court documents, newspaper clippings, and other material.

Arranged alphabetically by topic or type of material and therein alphabetically.

BOX 19-477

United States Court of Appeals: Case File, 1994-2014

The United States Court of Appeals: Case File, documenting Tatel's judicial service from the 1994 to the 2013 terms, reflects the variety of issues heard by the Court including civil rights, federalism, environmental law, civil liberties, national security, and regulatory and labor law. The Case File is arranged by court term from September through June of each year and therein by two types of cases: argued cases and miscellaneous cases. Argued cases are those heard in oral argument by three judge panels or the full court. The argued cases comprise the largest portion of the case files. Occasionally a case scheduled for oral argument was decided without a panel hearing, and these cases remain as they were filed by Tatel's staff according to their proposed argument date. Miscellaneous cases are appeals matters that were decided without oral argument.

Issues covered in substantive cases in which Tatel participated include network neutrality of the Internet (Verizon v. Federal Communications Commission), implementation of the Clean Air Act by the Environmental Protection Agency (American Trucking Associations v. the Environmental Protection Agency and Coalition for Responsible Regulation v. the Environmental Protection Agency), access obstruction by protestors to abortion clinics (Terry v. Reno), restriction of unaccompanied minors by curfew (Hutchins v. District of Columbia) and racial discrimination in voting (Shelby County v. Holder and Northwest Austin Municipal Utility District 1 v. Mukasey, the latter an opinion written by Tatel as a member of a panel for the federal district court for the District Court of Columbia).

The Court of Appeals Case File also documents the Court's role as the principle court interpreting the legal rights of non-citizens and United States citizens suspected of terrorism held overseas by the federal government. Cases include those of Guantánamo Bay, Cuba, detainees challenging their imprisonment and confinement conditions (Latif v. Obama and Aamer v. Obama) and the authority of American courts to hear habeas claims by American citizens held out of the country by the military for alleged crimes (Omar v. Harvey). The miscellaneous cases for the 2006 term contain a number of files for a group of Guantánamo Bay special panel matters.

Material types include correspondence, memoranda, notes, orders, briefs, opinions, vote sheets, newspaper clippings, and background material relating to cases in which Tatel participated as a judge on the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. Some content of case files, including select exhibits, memoranda, draft opinions, notes and depositions, is in digital format as word-processed documents and moving image files.

Arranged by court term and therein alphabetically by type of case: argued cases and miscellaneous cases. The argued cases are further arranged by the date the case was heard by the court and therein by case number. Miscellaneous cases are arranged by case number or alphabetically by case title if there is no case number. The file structure of the digital content maintained as received.

Speeches and Writings File, 1965-2004

The Speeches and Writings File reflects Tatel's interest in civil rights and school desegregation. The majority of the files feature speeches and articles by Tatel, including typed drafts and published versions. The bulk of the series consists of drafts and research material pertaining to Tatel's James Madison lecture entitled "Judicial Methodology, Southern School Desegregation, and the Rule of Law" given in 2003 at the New York University School of Law. The speech was published in 2004 in the school's law review. Drafts of the article and research files relating to it are filed in the writings section of the series. The writings also contain drafts and research pertaining to Tatel's 1996 introduction to the "D.C. Circuit Review," published in the George Washington Law Review. A partial list of Tatel's speeches and writings is filed at the beginning of the series.

Material types include correspondence, memoranda, notes, outlines, speech drafts, drafts and published versions of writings, legal briefs and memoranda, transcripts of tapes, research material, invitations, newspaper clippings, and printed material. Some material, including drafts and research material, is available in digital format as word-processed documents and audio files.

Arranged alphabetically by type of material and therein chronologically or alphabetically. The file structure of the digital content maintained as received.

Miscellany, 1871-2004

The Miscellany series covers Tatel's career as a lawyer in private practice and his involvement with several legal and educational organizations. The papers document his time in Chicago as a lawyer at the firm of Sidley & Austin, his activities as Director of the Chicago Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, and his work for the Chicago Riot Study Commission. The files include material relating to the successful efforts by the Chicago Lawyers' Committee in getting the federal government to investigate the murder of two Chicago leaders of the Black Panther Party in 1969, as well as files relating to the Chicago Riot Study Committee. As a member of the committee's staff, Tatel investigated how schools and the police functioned during the riots that occurred in Chicago in 1968 after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Included in the committee files are Tatel's interviews with merchants, teachers, students, school officials, and the final published report.

The Miscellany series also features material relating to Tatel's endeavors as an attorney in Washington, D.C. While a partner at Hogan & Hartson 1972-1977 and 1979-1994, Tatel focused on educational issues, particularly the area of school desegregation. The series includes files relating to his negotiation of a settlement between the NAACP and the city of St. Louis (Liddell v. Board of Education of the City of St. Louis) resulting in increased desegregation of city schools and files pertaining to his involvement in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, school desegregation case. Also present are papers pertaining to Tatel's activities with the National Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law (director from 1972-1974) and his work with the Legal Services Corporation (general counsel from 1975-1976).

In addition, the Miscellany series documents Tatel's unusual role as a mediator to end a dispute between special education students and the public schools in Baltimore, Maryland. The series also includes files relating to his affiliation with the National Research Council, the Spencer Foundation, and his time as an instructor at the University of Michigan Law School and as a lecturer briefly at Stanford University Law School.

Material types include correspondence, memoranda, interviews, court documents, petitions, briefs, notes, reports, research material, newspaper clippings, and printed material. One draft policy of the Committee to Draft Sexual Harassment Policy for the District of Columbia Circuit is in digital format as a word-processed document.

Arranged alphabetically by name person or organization, topic, or type of material and therein alphabetically or chronologically. The file structure of the digital content maintained as received.

BOX 477-499	Speeches and Writings File, 1965-2004
		The Speeches and Writings File reflects Tatel's interest in civil rights and school desegregation. The majority of the files feature speeches and articles by Tatel, including typed drafts and published versions. The bulk of the series consists of drafts and research material pertaining to Tatel's James Madison lecture entitled "Judicial Methodology, Southern School Desegregation, and the Rule of Law" given in 2003 at the New York University School of Law. The speech was published in 2004 in the school's law review. Drafts of the article and research files relating to it are filed in the writings section of the series. The writings also contain drafts and research pertaining to Tatel's 1996 introduction to the "D.C. Circuit Review," published in the George Washington Law Review . A partial list of Tatel's speeches and writings is filed at the beginning of the series. Material types include correspondence, memoranda, notes, outlines, speech drafts, drafts and published versions of writings, legal briefs and memoranda, transcripts of tapes, research material, invitations, newspaper clippings, and printed material. Some material, including drafts and research material, is available in digital format as word-processed documents and audio files. Arranged alphabetically by type of material and therein chronologically or alphabetically. The file structure of the digital content maintained as received.

BOX 499-524	Miscellany, 1871-2004 The Miscellany series covers Tatel's career as a lawyer in private practice and his involvement with several legal and educational organizations. The papers document his time in Chicago as a lawyer at the firm of Sidley &amp; Austin, his activities as Director of the Chicago Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, and his work for the Chicago Riot Study Commission. The files include material relating to the successful efforts by the Chicago Lawyers' Committee in getting the federal government to investigate the murder of two Chicago leaders of the Black Panther Party in 1969, as well as files relating to the Chicago Riot Study Committee. As a member of the committee's staff, Tatel investigated how schools and the police functioned during the riots that occurred in Chicago in 1968 after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Included in the committee files are Tatel's interviews with merchants, teachers, students, school officials, and the final published report. The Miscellany series also features material relating to Tatel's endeavors as an attorney in Washington, D.C. While a partner at Hogan &amp; Hartson 1972-1977 and 1979-1994, Tatel focused on educational issues, particularly the area of school desegregation. The series includes files relating to his negotiation of a settlement between the NAACP and the city of St. Louis (Liddell v. Board of Education of the City of St. Louis) resulting in increased desegregation of city schools and files pertaining to his involvement in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, school desegregation case. Also present are papers pertaining to Tatel's activities with the National Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law (director from 1972-1974) and his work with the Legal Services Corporation (general counsel from 1975-1976). In addition, the Miscellany series documents Tatel's unusual role as a mediator to end a dispute between special education students and the public schools in Baltimore, Maryland. The series also includes files relating to his affiliation with the National Research Council, the Spencer Foundation, and his time as an instructor at the University of Michigan Law School and as a lecturer briefly at Stanford University Law School. Material types include correspondence, memoranda, interviews, court documents, petitions, briefs, notes, reports, research material, newspaper clippings, and printed material. One draft policy of the Committee to Draft Sexual Harassment Policy for the District of Columbia Circuit is in digital format as a word-processed document. Arranged alphabetically by name person or organization, topic, or type of material and therein alphabetically or chronologically. The file structure of the digital content maintained as received.
