Acquisition Information

The cyphering book collection of Nerida F. Ellerton and McKenzie A. Clements was purchased by the Library of Congress in 2021.

Processing History

The cyphering book collection of Nerida F. Ellerton and McKenzie A. Clements was arranged and described by Katherine Madison in 2021.

The archivist maintained the order created by Ellerton and Clements, who assigned numbers to the manuscripts in near-chronological order. Each number corresponds to an individual or family. Multiple books by the same creator were grouped under the same number and appended with the suffixes "a," "b," and so on. This arrangement corresponds to the descriptions in Ellerton and Clements's Interpretive Reference Catalogue (described below) and has been maintained by the archivist.

Additional Description

Ellerton and Clements independently published a catalog of their cyphering book collection, Cyphering Books Prepared in the North American Colonies (but not Canada), or in the United States of America, 1667-1907: An Interpretive Reference Catalogue (Perth, Australia: Meridian Press, 2021). This volume contains detailed descriptions of each cyphering manuscript. The catalog also includes introductory essays by Ellerton and Clements describing the collection and the cyphering tradition of mathematics education. A physical copy of this volume arrived at the Library with the Ellerton-Clements collection of cyphering books, and is available for consultation in the Manuscript Reading Room. A digital copy (PDF) is available on-site in the Manuscript Reading Room. Consult reference staff for more information.

Printed copies of individual catalog pages describing the numbered cyphering books are included with the respective manuscripts in the collection, as received.

Related Material

Related material in the Manuscript Division includes schoolbooks containing math problems by George Washington in the George Washington Papers (see <https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mss/eadmss.ms008068>), which are available online at <https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mss/collmss.ms000010>. The Manuscript Division also holds leaves from Abraham Lincoln's "arithmetic book" in the Herndon-Weik Collection of Lincolniana (see <https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mss/eadmss.ms001002>), which are available online at <https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mss/collmss.ms000093>.

Copyright Status

Materials from the Ellerton-Clements Cyphering Book Collection are governed by the Copyright Law of the United State (Title 17, U.S.C.) and other applicable international copyright laws.

Access and Restrictions

The cyphering book collection of Nerida F. Ellerton and McKenzie A. Clements is open to research. Many collections are stored off-site and advance notice is needed to retrieve these items for research use. Researchers are advised to contact the Manuscript Reading Room prior to visiting.

Physical Access

Many volumes in this collection are fragile and require careful handling. Some volumes, as indicated in the container list, are bound in period wallpaper that may contain harmful substances and require special handling. Consult reference staff in the Manuscript Division for more information.

Biographical Note

Nerida Fay Ellerton (née Gersch) and McKenzie Alexander "Ken" Clements were professors of mathematics at Illinois State University.

Ellerton earned Ph.D.s in both physical chemistry (University of Adelaide) and mathematics education (Victoria University of Wellington). Clements earned a Ph.D. in mathematics from the University of Melbourne. Each taught at multiple Australian universities before immigrating to the United States, and from 1997 to 2004, Clements taught at the Universiti Brunei Darussalam. Ellerton served as a professor of mathematics education at Illinois State University from 2002 until her retirement to professor emeritus in 2018. Clements served as a professor in the mathematics department at ISU from 2005 until his retirement to professor emeritus in 2019.

Ellerton and Clements married in 2005. As research collaborators, they published together Rewriting the History of School Mathematics in North America, 1607-1861: The Central Role of Cyphering Books (New York: Springer, 2012), Abraham Lincoln's Cyphering Book and Ten other Extraordinary Cyphering Books (New York: Springer, 2014), and Thomas Jefferson and His Decimals, 1775-1810: Neglected Years in the History of U.S. School Mathematics (New York: Springer, 2015), as well as various articles.

Scope and Content Note

The cyphering book collection of Nerida F. Ellerton and McKenzie A. Clements spans the years 1666-2021, with the bulk of the material dated between 1764 and 1865. It consists of approximately 550 handwritten manuscripts and accompanying information that document the cyphering (or "ciphering") tradition of mathematics education in North America in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

This collection was accumulated by Nerida F. Ellerton and McKenzie A. "Ken" Clements, professors of mathematics at Illinois State University, who studied modern and historical methods of mathematics education. It comprises the single largest collection of cyphering manuscripts related to North America and contains the earliest known North American cyphering book (EC #1, circa 1666). Cyphering books were created by pre-college students to demonstrate their knowledge of mathematical concepts, or by instructors as educational tools. They were typically written in a highly calligraphic style, with mathematical rules copied out and followed by example cases, moving through topics of progressive difficulty. These books served as reference and instructional tools for students and family members and were often passed down through families. The mathematical problems they contain often reflect local economies (such as land surveying, farming, navigation, and currency exchange), and the volumes frequently include students' drawings and handwriting practice. Several early volumes were reused by subsequent owners as scrapbooks. The cyphering tradition dominated school mathematics instruction in the American colonies and the United States through the 1840s. Later volumes in the collection show the transition to different educational methods.

The majority of volumes are hand-sewn or bound with a variety of cover materials, including fabric, newsprint, leather, wallpaper, and paperboard. Commercially available notebooks began to appear in the early nineteenth century, and are well represented in the collection. Some volumes include contemporary enclosures, such as newspaper clippings, correspondence, wills, or other ephemera. Many additional volumes are accompanied by pages of Ellerton and Clements's online genealogical research pertaining to the individual and family who authored a particular cyphering book. Some handwritten notes by Ellerton and Clements pertaining to mathematical concepts are also included with select volumes.

Ellerton and Clements assigned each cyphering book a number between 1 and 480 (skipping over #249), identifying it by the creator as well as the American colony, state, or territory in which it was created. One volume, EC #460, was created in Allahabad (Prayagraj), India, by an American missionary. Every volume in the collection is accompanied by a copy of Ellerton and Clements's description of that volume from their 2021 Interpretive Reference Catalogue (described above). These "catalogue records" typically include a brief description of the cyphering book's physical condition as well as a brief discussion of the mathematical concepts or curricula followed within. Two volumes not included in the Interpretive Reference Catalogue are listed at the end of the container list.

Arrangement of the Collection

This collection maintains the sequential arrangement provided by Ellerton and Clements, with cyphering books numbered between 1 and 480 in near-chronological order.
