Summary: The Arnold T. Schwab Collection on Marian Nevins MacDowell is an archive of materials related to the life and work of Marian Nevins MacDowell, founder of the MacDowell Colony in Peterborough, New Hampshire, named for her late husband, composer Edward MacDowell (1860-1908). The writings, correspondence, iconography, scrapbooks, index cards, and other papers reflect collector and donor Arnold T. Schwab's interest in and research on the MacDowell legacy.

Provenance

Gift, Arnold T. Schwab, 2000

Accruals

No further accruals are expected.

Processing History

Robert Saladini processed the Arnold T. Schwab Collection on Marian Nevins MacDowell in 2001. Alicia Patterson and Jane Cross coded the finding aid in 2020.

Transfers

A reel-to-reel tape of an interview conducted by Emerson Meyers with Mary Howe and Marian MacDowell was transferred to the Motion Picture, Broadcast and Recorded Sound Division of the Library of Congress and can be found at RXB 8309 and RXC 1381.

Other Repositories

The Edward MacDowell Papers, 1876-1964, are located at Columbia University, and the Margery Morgan Lowens collection on Edward MacDowell is located at the University of Maryland's Special Collections in Performing Arts.

Biographical Note

Arnold T. Schwab, who was born in Los Angeles in 1922, received his bachelors degree from UCLA and his masters degree and doctorate from Harvard University. For most of his career, he was professor of English at California State University, Long Beach, until his retirement in 1980. He is the author of numerous scholarly articles, lectures, and poems, including James Gibbons Huneker, Critic of the Seven Arts published by Stanford University Press in 1963; Canadian Poets: Vital Facts on English-Writing Poets Born from 1730 through 1910 published by Dalhousie University in 1989; and several articles on Edward and Marian MacDowell and the MacDowell Colony.

Biographical Note

Marian Griswold Nevins was an accomplished pianist at the time she met Edward MacDowell in Germany, where she had intended to study with Clara Schuman, wife of composer Robert Schumann. Instead, Nevins began her study with MacDowell and eventually married him. After spending time in Europe, the couple returned to the United States and settled in New York, where Edward MacDowell joined the faculty of Columbia University to establish its music department. Edward MacDowell was considered to be the most prominent and internationally recognized American composer of the era. In 1896, the MacDowells bought a 75-acre farm in Peterborough, New Hampshire; a place that they hoped would be a source of inspiration for the composer. A decline in Edward MacDowell's health, however, prompted them to transform the farm into a place where creative artists could find freedom to concentrate on their work, a goal that consumed Marian MacDowell until her death in 1956.

Scope and Content Note

The Arnold T. Schwab Collection on Marian Nevins MacDowell spans the years 1731 to 1993, with the bulk of the materials dating from 1929 to 1955. Collector Arnold T. Schwab amassed these materials in preparation for a biography of Marian Nevins MacDowell. The Writings series contains the rough outline of this book that was never completed, as well as interviews and lists of colonists.

Included in the collection is a large cache of MacDowell-related Correspondence, mostly photocopies, to and from Edward MacDowell, Marian Nevins MacDowell, and their family, assembled from a variety of sources. Schwab often stamped the name of the original source or home repository on the reverse of the first page of the letter. The Arnold T. Schwab subseries contains copies of Schwab's letters to and from various friends and acquaintances of the MacDowells and MacDowell colonists. Notable correspondents include Carl Carmer, Aaron Copland, Mabel Daniels, Marjorie Chandler Hazard, George Kendall, Nina Maud Richardson, Cecil Smith, Conrad Spohnholz, Louise Talma, and many others.

The Iconography series contains photographs, postcards, and negatives depicting the MacDowell Colony, colonists, family, friends, and residential architecture. Schwab also assembled six Scrapbooks that he organized by date. The large group of Index Cards are arranged by various subjects representing aspects of Schwab's research. The Bound Volumes consist of a book by Edward MacDowell, two books about him, a selection of poems by MacDowell Colony poets, and three sets of reports from the Edward MacDowell Association dating from 1913 to 1942.

The Pamphlets contain more Edward MacDowell Association reports (1907-1948), as well as information about Peterborough and the MacDowell Colony. The Papers of the Nevins-Perkins-Griswold Family of Connecticut make up the bulk of the Microfilm series, which also includes Columbia University's Edward MacDowell Papers, Marian MacDowell's autobiography, correspondence, and photographs. The final series, Miscellany, includes clippings, legal documents, medical information, an inventory of books, and a masters thesis on the MacDowell Colony landscape. Photocopies of materials collected by Schwab from the Music Division's Edward and Marian MacDowell Collection and the Manuscript Division's MacDowell collections were not retained.

Arrangement

The collection is organized in nine series:

- Writings, 1939-1975
- Correspondence, 1876-1993
- Iconography, 1866-1985
