Summary: Leonora Jackson McKim was one of the first American female concert violinists to achieve international acclaim. She made her debut in 1896 and was awarded the Mendelssohn State Prize in 1898. She performed for royalty in Britain, Germany, and Sweden and was decorated by Queen Victoria in 1899. In 1915, she married Dr. William Duncan McKim (1855-1935) and they lived in Washington, D.C. The collection contains printed and manuscript music (chiefly for violin and piano), writings, correspondence, photographs, publicity materials, artwork, and miscellaneous items.

Provenance

Gifts, Leonora Jackson McKim, 1928-1969

Thirteen photographs, Ernest Jackson's personal history, a promotional brochure, and legal papers, all thought to be the property of a cousin of Leonora Jackson McKim, were purchased through a dealer in 1999.

Accruals

No further accruals are expected.

Processing History

Stefan Patejak processed the Leonora Jackson McKim Papers in 1998. Jane Cross reprocessed the music, and Cross, Anthony Edwards, and Melissa Capozio Jones coded the finding aid in 2020-2021.

Other Repositories

The Leonora Jackson McKim Photograph Collection of Scenery and People in Norway, Israel and Palestine, Italy, and Canada is located at the Smithsonian's National Anthropological Archives, and the Leonora Jackson McKim Photograph Collection is located at the Maryland Center for History and Culture.

Related Material

The Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation Collection contains correspondence with McKim. Art historian and Stradivari expert Alessandra Barabaschi spoke at the Library of Congress in 2020 about the life and legacy of Leonora Jackson McKim.

Biographical Note

Leonora Jackson McKim was born in Boston, Massachusetts, circa 1879 to Charles P. Jackson, an engineer, and his wife, aspiring singer Elisabeth Higgins. McKim demonstrated a gift for music from an early age. She studied violin and attracted the attention of George Vanderbilt and first lady Frances Cleveland, who sponsored her training in Chicago, Paris, and Berlin. Among McKim's teachers was Joseph Joachim. She made her debut in 1896 and was awarded the Mendelssohn State Prize by the Prussian government in 1898. She performed for royalty in Britain, Germany, and Sweden and was decorated by Queen Victoria in 1899. McKim was a soloist with leading European and American orchestras, including the London Philharmonic and the Boston Symphony. In the 1900-1901 season alone she performed 160 concerts throughout the United States. She performed on a 1714 Stradivarius that has come to be known as the "Leonora Jackson" Stradivarius.

In 1915 she married Dr. William Duncan McKim (1855-1935), a member of a wealthy Baltimore merchant family. The McKims traveled extensively and were patrons of the arts, holding musical programs in their Washington, D.C., home. Upon her death on January 7, 1969, McKim left the bulk of her estate to the Library of Congress. The Leonora Jackson and William Duncan McKim Fund was established in 1970 to commission works for violin and piano, sponsor a series of concerts at the Library of Congress, and to purchase letters by prominent composers.

Scope and Content Note

The Leonora Jackson McKim Papers span from 1854 to 1969, the bulk of which date from 1890 to 1945. The Music series is by far the largest, containing primarily works for violin and piano. It also includes a few orchestra scores, string quartets, violin duets, solo piano works, and songs for voice and piano. While there are several holographs and manuscripts, the bulk of the materials are printed. Many works contain annotations, and some are signed by either the composers or conductors. Of particular note are the works composed by McKim and members of her family.

McKim pursued writing as well as music, and her literary efforts are found in the Writings series, along with a small amount of writings by others. McKim's typescript and holograph documents include poetry, plays, essays, stories, books, reminiscences, illustrations, and notes. She submitted works to publishers and publications under her own name as well as the pseudonyms Betty Fairchild and Louella Jones.

The collection also contains a small amount of Publicity Materials, consisting of clippings, a poster, and concert programs. The Photographs primarily depict McKim, her family, friends, and fellow musicians with whom she corresponded and performed. The few letters in the Correspondence series are chiefly with notable persons such as Albert Einstein, President McKinley, and first lady Edith Wilson, as well as with her brother Ernest Jackson. McKim was also creative as an artist, and her drawings, oil paintings, and watercolors comprise the Artwork series. The Miscellany series includes receipts, legal documents, lyrics, a portrait, and a scrapbook, among other items.
