Scope and Content Note

The Steven Stucky Papers span 1934 to 2015, with the bulk dating from 1983 to 2010. The collection documents Stucky's career as a composer, scholar, conductor, and university faculty member.

The Music series consists of holograph and printed music in two subseries, Music by Stucky and Music by Other Composers. The Music by Stucky subseries includes sketches and drafts of his orchestral and chamber works, most of which are accompanied by published versions containing his annotations. Music by Other Composers consists primarily of printed works that Stucky conducted, programmed, or considered for performance by Ensemble X, the Los Angeles Philharmonic New Music Group, or the Green Umbrella new music series. Witold Lutosławski's music is also well represented in this subseries.

The Subject Files are the largest non-music series in the collection. These include Stucky's research materials on other composers that he used for pre-concert lectures and programming, namely biographies, publicity, reviews, and musical excerpts. It also contains documentation about Stucky's own compositions. Of interest are his analyses of his works that he used as teaching examples in courses at Cornell and lectures outside the university. Other materials in this series represent some of the major awards that Stucky received for his compositions, including documents from his 2005 Pulitzer Prize for Second Concerto for Orchestra and his entrance pass for the 2013 Grammy Awards, when August 4, 1964 was nominated for Best Classical Contemporary Composition. His annotated scripts for the New York Philharmonic's Hear & Now pre-concert lectures are also in this series. The correspondence consists primarily of short letters from many other composers who were Stucky's contemporaries. His publications are represented in this series, along with a small number of personal papers and photographs.

The Witold Lutosławski Materials series details Stucky's role as a leading scholar of Lutosławski's music. This series contains Stucky's research, publications, program notes, and dissertation on Lutosławski's works. There are also reviews of his book, Lutoslawski and His Music (1981), correspondence from Lutosławski, Stucky's writings on Lutosławski, and conference papers. Some materials in this series are in Polish.

Stucky was the composer-in-residence of the Los Angeles Philharmonic from 1988 to 2009. The Los Angeles Philharmonic Materials contain his scripts from the Upbeat Live pre-concert lectures that he hosted. As composer-in-residence, he served as the consulting composer for new music and directed the orchestra's Green Umbrella new music series. Programs and planning documents for Green Umbrella are in this series. Information and schedules from Los Angeles Philharmonic seasons between 1992 and 2009 can also be found here, along with Stucky's clippings about the construction and opening of the Walt Disney Concert Hall.

Teaching Materials comprise materials that Stucky generated as a professor of music at Cornell University. They include several graduate student candidacy exams he authored and notes for courses he taught on music theory and music history. This series also contains his annotated lecture scripts and corresponding musical examples for talks he gave outside Cornell University. Topics of these lectures include music history, the current state of classical music, and his compositions and compositional process.

The Clippings are newspaper and magazine articles that date from the 1960s to 2013. Those from the 1960s are features on Stucky as a young composer. Most materials in this series are reviews of performances of Stucky's music, interviews, and feature articles written when he received awards. Performances of Stucky's works from 1970 through 2015 are also documented in the Programs series. It includes programs from the Los Angeles Philharmonic's Green Umbrella chamber music series and Ensemble X, a contemporary chamber ensemble that Stucky founded and conducted that consisted of Ithaca College and Cornell University faculty. Some of these materials contain program notes that Stucky authored.

Organization of the Steven Stucky Collection

The collection is arranged in seven series:

Series

Music, 1940-2015 (bulk 1990-2010)

This series consists of holograph and printed music for works by Steven Stucky and published music by other composers.

Organized as two subseries.

Music by Stucky, 1969-2015

This subseries contains holograph and printed scores, piano-vocal scores, parts, and sketches for music that Stucky composed between 1969 and 2015. The majority of these contain his annotations. Significant items include materials for Concerto for Orchestra, which was a finalist for the 1989 Pulitzer Prize for Music, as well as Second Concerto for Orchestra, for which Stucky was awarded the 2005 Pulitzer Prize for Music. This subseries also contains a substantial amount of music and compositional notes for The Classical Style: An Opera of Sorts that collectively trace the work's development between 2013 and 2015. Additional works represented here include American Muse, August 4, 1964, Four Poems of A. R. Ammons, Silent Spring, The Stars and the Roses, Symphony 2012, and many of his other orchestral, chamber, and vocal works. Some works have correspondence and text laid in.

The original, unredacted emails regarding The Classical Style: An Opera (of Sorts) are restricted until 2073.

Arranged alphabetically by title.

Music by Others, 1940-2015

This subseries primarily contains printed scores, piano-vocal scores, and parts for works by other composers published between 1940 and 2016. These materials, many of which contain Stucky's annotations, exhibit the diverse influences on his compositional style. Included here is a significant amount of music for Witold Lutosławski's compositions, on whose work Stucky was an expert. Donald Crockett, Magnus Lindberg, Joseph Phibbs, Esa-Pekka Salonen, and Diego Vega are among the other composers represented in these materials. Additionally, this subseries contains music for several of Stucky's arrangements, including a holograph score for his orchestration of Maurice Ravel's Noctuelles.

Arranged alphabetically by composer and title therein.

MAPCASE FOLDER 1

Subject Files, 1934-2016

This series documents Stucky's multi-faceted composition career and accomplishments. There are two main file groups within the series. The first, Composers, contains Stucky's extensive research on other composers as well as publisher pamphlets and programs from performances of their works. Stucky used this material in his pre-concert lectures for the Los Angeles Philharmonic and New York Philharmonic, as well as programming for the Los Angeles Philharmonic New Music Group and Ensemble X. Although there are files on well-known composers such as Mozart and Sibelius, there are also materials about twentieth-century composers from America and abroad, including Louis Andriessen (the Netherlands), Harrison Birtwistle (Great Britain), and Liza Lim (Australia). This series also contains reviews, programs, and Stucky's own analyses of some of his compositions that he used as lecture examples in music history and composition courses he taught at Cornell. These analyses, when viewed alongside their corresponding works in the Music series, provide insight into Stucky's use of structure and compositional techniques and the evolution of his works throughout his career.

The Subject Files also contain information about Stucky's endeavors outside of teaching. These include the Meet the Composer program, through which Stucky worked with the Los Angeles Philharmonic prior to his appointment as composer-in-residence. The New York Philharmonic files contain Stucky's contract and scripts for the Hear & Now pre-concert lecture series that he hosted from 2005 to 2009. Recordings exist of the musical examples he compiled for these lectures. A strong proponent of new music, Stucky founded the contemporary new music ensemble Ensemble X, comprised of music faculty from Cornell University and Ithaca College, in 1997. The programs, publicity, and recording notes from its two albums can be found in this series. Coursework from Stucky's undergraduate and graduate music classes, along with his concert reviews for the Ithaca College newspaper, comprise much of his writing from the 1960s and 1970s. His writing from the 1980s through the 2000s includes book reviews, journal articles, program notes, and articles about music for Baylor and Cornell's newsletters. Please note that Stucky's writings about composer Witold Lutosławski are in the Witold Lutosławski Materials series.

Stucky received numerous awards for his compositions, beginning in his youth. This series contains his National Federation of Music Clubs Youth Composition Award (1969), which he won at age twenty, and documentation of major awards such as the Pulitzer Prize (2005), ASCAP Deems Taylor Award (1981), and Guggenheim Fellowship (1986), among others. There is also correspondence, most of which is from other composers, including John Harbison, Libby Larsen, and Shulamit Ran, along with personal correspondence such as birthday cards and thank you notes from students and friends.

Digital files comprise photographs from Stucky's trip to Mexico in 1991.

The original, unredacted emails regarding The Classical Style: An Opera (of Sorts) are restricted until 2073.

Principal file format: .jpg.

Arranged alphabetically and chronologically therein.

BOX 63-66

Lutosławski Materials, 1970-2013

Stucky was a leading scholar on the life and work of Polish composer Witold Lutosławski.

The bulk of this series is Stucky's research on Lutosławski's works, which include analyses of the pitch, structure, and compositional techniques. Some notable materials are Stucky and Lutosławski's correspondence, as well as Stucky's PhD dissertation annotated by Lutosławski. There is also correspondence between Stucky and Krystyan Tarnawska, another eminent Lutosławski scholar from Poland, that dates from 1983 to 1994. Stucky was a frequent participant at conferences about Lutosławski around the world; this series includes his lectures, other scholars' papers, and publicity from these events. Also represented are reviews of his book Lutosławski and His Music, which won the 1981 ASCAP Deems Taylor Prize. Some correspondence and publications are in Polish.

Arranged alphabetically and chronologically therein.

BOX 66-69

Los Angeles Philharmonic Materials, 1985-2009

Stucky was the composer-in-residence for the Los Angeles Philharmonic from 1988 through 2009, the longest such relationship between a composer and an American orchestra.

Under conductor Esa-Pekka Salonen, the Los Angeles Philharmonic made an effort to program living composers and increase audience outreach. As composer-in-residence, Stucky gave pre-concert lectures, known as Upbeat Live. His annotated Upbeat Live scripts are located in this series, and the audio examples he compiled for the lectures have been transferred to MBRS. Stucky also conducted the New Music Ensemble and directed the Green Umbrella new music series, created by Ernest Fleischmann, the orchestra's longtime general manager, in the 1980s. Green Umbrella programs can be found in this series and in the Programs series.

In addition to composer-in-residence, Stucky served in an advisory role to the Los Angeles Philharmonic administration. Consequently, there are planning documents and schedules for several seasons beginning in 1993 and ending in 2006. There are also files devoted to the orchestra's projects, such as "Surprising Century" celebrating the end of the 20th century and concert series devoted to the works of specific twentieth century composers. Additionally, there are a small number of newspaper articles related to the construction and opening of Walt Disney Concert Hall, which opened in 2003.

Arranged alphabetically and chronologically therein.

Teaching Materials, 1980-2015

This series documents Stucky's work as music faculty and as a guest lecturer at various residencies, festivals, and universities. These items include oral and written exams he compiled as an advisor and committee panelist for graduate music students. They also include Stucky's class notes and examples he used to teach music history and theory courses focusing mostly on twentieth and twenty-first century music. While there are several courses represented, there are no class notes for a complete semester.

Outside of his duties as a professor, Stucky was a frequent guest lecturer. The second file unit contains his lecture scripts and musical examples. Although the musical examples are brief excerpts from larger works, they are evidence of his deep familiarity with modern classical music. He gave four lectures as the recipient of the Ernest Bloch Professorship at the University of California, Berkeley, in 2003. These annotated scripts comprise the bulk of this file unit. Topics covered in these lectures were the current state of classical music and compositional process. Stucky also lectured on his own works. Of note is a lecture about his Second Concerto for Orchestra, which won the Pulitzer Prize in 2005, and another on August 4, 1964, which was nominated for the Grammy Award for Best Classical Composition in 2013.

Arranged alphabetically and chronologically therein.

Clippings, 1960-2013

This series consists of newspaper and magazine clippings, the majority of which document Steven Stucky's professional activities from the 1960s to 2013. Materials include concert and album reviews, interviews, and announcements for concerts and awards. A small number of clippings are about Esa-Pekka Salonen and Finnish composer Magnus Lindberg. Arranged chronologically.

BOX 73-80

Programs, 1970-2015

This series contains programs for performances of Stucky's works ranging from chamber ensemble to full orchestra, beginning in 1970 when he was an undergraduate student at Baylor University, through 2015. There are also programs from performances where he conducted pieces by other composers, such as the Green Umbrella series in Los Angeles and Ensemble X concerts in Ithaca, New York. Some contain program notes that Stucky wrote for his own works or those by Witold Lutosławski.

Arranged chronologically.

Music by Others, 1940-2015

This subseries primarily contains printed scores, piano-vocal scores, and parts for works by other composers published between 1940 and 2016. These materials, many of which contain Stucky's annotations, exhibit the diverse influences on his compositional style. Included here is a significant amount of music for Witold Lutosławski's compositions, on whose work Stucky was an expert. Donald Crockett, Magnus Lindberg, Joseph Phibbs, Esa-Pekka Salonen, and Diego Vega are among the other composers represented in these materials. Additionally, this subseries contains music for several of Stucky's arrangements, including a holograph score for his orchestration of Maurice Ravel's Noctuelles.

Arranged alphabetically by composer and title therein.

This series documents Stucky's multi-faceted composition career and accomplishments. There are two main file groups within the series. The first, Composers, contains Stucky's extensive research on other composers as well as publisher pamphlets and programs from performances of their works. Stucky used this material in his pre-concert lectures for the Los Angeles Philharmonic and New York Philharmonic, as well as programming for the Los Angeles Philharmonic New Music Group and Ensemble X. Although there are files on well-known composers such as Mozart and Sibelius, there are also materials about twentieth-century composers from America and abroad, including Louis Andriessen (the Netherlands), Harrison Birtwistle (Great Britain), and Liza Lim (Australia). This series also contains reviews, programs, and Stucky's own analyses of some of his compositions that he used as lecture examples in music history and composition courses he taught at Cornell. These analyses, when viewed alongside their corresponding works in the Music series, provide insight into Stucky's use of structure and compositional techniques and the evolution of his works throughout his career.

The Subject Files also contain information about Stucky's endeavors outside of teaching. These include the Meet the Composer program, through which Stucky worked with the Los Angeles Philharmonic prior to his appointment as composer-in-residence. The New York Philharmonic files contain Stucky's contract and scripts for the Hear & Now pre-concert lecture series that he hosted from 2005 to 2009. Recordings exist of the musical examples he compiled for these lectures. A strong proponent of new music, Stucky founded the contemporary new music ensemble Ensemble X, comprised of music faculty from Cornell University and Ithaca College, in 1997. The programs, publicity, and recording notes from its two albums can be found in this series. Coursework from Stucky's undergraduate and graduate music classes, along with his concert reviews for the Ithaca College newspaper, comprise much of his writing from the 1960s and 1970s. His writing from the 1980s through the 2000s includes book reviews, journal articles, program notes, and articles about music for Baylor and Cornell's newsletters. Please note that Stucky's writings about composer Witold Lutosławski are in the Witold Lutosławski Materials series.

Stucky received numerous awards for his compositions, beginning in his youth. This series contains his National Federation of Music Clubs Youth Composition Award (1969), which he won at age twenty, and documentation of major awards such as the Pulitzer Prize (2005), ASCAP Deems Taylor Award (1981), and Guggenheim Fellowship (1986), among others. There is also correspondence, most of which is from other composers, including John Harbison, Libby Larsen, and Shulamit Ran, along with personal correspondence such as birthday cards and thank you notes from students and friends.

Digital files comprise photographs from Stucky's trip to Mexico in 1991.

The original, unredacted emails regarding The Classical Style: An Opera (of Sorts) are restricted until 2073.

BOX 63-66	Lutosławski Materials, 1970-2013 Stucky was a leading scholar on the life and work of Polish composer Witold Lutosławski. The bulk of this series is Stucky's research on Lutosławski's works, which include analyses of the pitch, structure, and compositional techniques. Some notable materials are Stucky and Lutosławski's correspondence, as well as Stucky's PhD dissertation annotated by Lutosławski. There is also correspondence between Stucky and Krystyan Tarnawska, another eminent Lutosławski scholar from Poland, that dates from 1983 to 1994. Stucky was a frequent participant at conferences about Lutosławski around the world; this series includes his lectures, other scholars' papers, and publicity from these events. Also represented are reviews of his book Lutosławski and His Music , which won the 1981 ASCAP Deems Taylor Prize. Some correspondence and publications are in Polish. Arranged alphabetically and chronologically therein.

BOX 66-69	Los Angeles Philharmonic Materials, 1985-2009 Stucky was the composer-in-residence for the Los Angeles Philharmonic from 1988 through 2009, the longest such relationship between a composer and an American orchestra. Under conductor Esa-Pekka Salonen, the Los Angeles Philharmonic made an effort to program living composers and increase audience outreach. As composer-in-residence, Stucky gave pre-concert lectures, known as Upbeat Live. His annotated Upbeat Live scripts are located in this series, and the audio examples he compiled for the lectures have been transferred to MBRS. Stucky also conducted the New Music Ensemble and directed the Green Umbrella new music series, created by Ernest Fleischmann, the orchestra's longtime general manager, in the 1980s. Green Umbrella programs can be found in this series and in the Programs series. In addition to composer-in-residence, Stucky served in an advisory role to the Los Angeles Philharmonic administration. Consequently, there are planning documents and schedules for several seasons beginning in 1993 and ending in 2006. There are also files devoted to the orchestra's projects, such as "Surprising Century" celebrating the end of the 20th century and concert series devoted to the works of specific twentieth century composers. Additionally, there are a small number of newspaper articles related to the construction and opening of Walt Disney Concert Hall, which opened in 2003. Arranged alphabetically and chronologically therein.

BOX 69-72	Teaching Materials, 1980-2015 This series documents Stucky's work as music faculty and as a guest lecturer at various residencies, festivals, and universities. These items include oral and written exams he compiled as an advisor and committee panelist for graduate music students. They also include Stucky's class notes and examples he used to teach music history and theory courses focusing mostly on twentieth and twenty-first century music. While there are several courses represented, there are no class notes for a complete semester. Outside of his duties as a professor, Stucky was a frequent guest lecturer. The second file unit contains his lecture scripts and musical examples. Although the musical examples are brief excerpts from larger works, they are evidence of his deep familiarity with modern classical music. He gave four lectures as the recipient of the Ernest Bloch Professorship at the University of California, Berkeley, in 2003. These annotated scripts comprise the bulk of this file unit. Topics covered in these lectures were the current state of classical music and compositional process. Stucky also lectured on his own works. Of note is a lecture about his Second Concerto for Orchestra, which won the Pulitzer Prize in 2005, and another on August 4, 1964 , which was nominated for the Grammy Award for Best Classical Composition in 2013. BOX 73-80

This series contains programs for performances of Stucky's works ranging from chamber ensemble to full orchestra, beginning in 1970 when he was an undergraduate student at Baylor University, through 2015. There are also programs from performances where he conducted pieces by other composers, such as the Green Umbrella series in Los Angeles and Ensemble X concerts in Ithaca, New York. Some contain program notes that Stucky wrote for his own works or those by Witold Lutosławski.
