Summary: This collection contains scores and parts from the 1989-1993 period during which radio host Garrison Keillor took a hiatus from the weekly variety show A Prairie Home Companion and started a new radio show called American Radio Company. The program featured sketches and live musical performances similar to those of A Prairie Home Companion, but with a New York cultural focus (it was broadcast from the Brooklyn Academy of Music rather than from the Fitzgerald Theater in Minneapolis) and greater musical diversity. The house band for this period was "The Coffee Club Orchestra" led by music director Rob Fisher, with much of the music arranged by composer and music director Russell Warner.

Organizational History Note

Author, entertainer, and radio personality Garrison Keillor established American Radio Company (formally American Radio Company of the Air) in 1989. Broadcast live from the Opera House of the Brooklyn Academy of Music in New York City, the program utilized theatrical sketches and musical performances similar to A Prairie Home Companion, but designed for a more urban audience. It premiered on November 25, 1989, and ran for four seasons. Guest artists included Tito Puente, Peter Schickele, the Dixie Chicks, Robin and Linda Williams, and many others. In 1992, Keillor brought the program back to Minnesota Public Radio and subsequently reverted its name to A Prairie Home Companion on October 3, 1993.
