Biographical Note

Hugh Newell Jacobsen's (1929-2021) designs are notable for their careful proportions, elegant craftsmanship, and reinterpretation of traditional forms. A sampling of the drawings he produced for residential buildings in the Metropolitan Washington, D.C., area between 1964 and 1985 are represented in the Jacobsen Architectural Drawing Archive (Library of Congress).

Jacobsen is known for his designs for single detached houses and public buildings as well as sensitive historic restorations throughout the world. Before opening his own firm in 1958, Jacobsen studied architecture at the University of Maryland (B.A., 1951), the Architectural Association School in London (1954), and Yale University (M. Arch., 1955). In addition, Jacobsen worked in the offices of Philip Johnson (1955), Keyes & Lethbridge (1957-1958), and for the U.S. Air Force (1955-1957).

Scope and Content Note

Primarily architectural drawings by Hugh Newell Jacobsen for residential buildings in Washington, D.C., and surrounding suburbs. The archive contains designs for single detached houses and student housing for Georgetown University. Materials document various phases of the design process, from preliminary sketches to working drawings, and include miscellaneous supplementary materials relating to building projects. The archive also includes some landscape architecture and engineering drawings.

Specific media or processes represented include graphite, ink, colored pencil, felt pen, diazo print, photographic print, stat, blueprint, and photomechanical print.

Some ADE UNITS have additional materials to the drawings that are filed separately. If present, these series are noted at the end of the ADE UNIT's summary with the following options: specifications, photographs, and/or miscellaneous supplementary materials. These materials are not item inventoried but can be requested from a librarian while doing research in the Reading Room.

Arrangement

The collection is organized into 11 groups (called UNITS), which are usually based on separate building projects. Items are arranged numerically according to the staff-assigned UNIT number.
