Biographical Note

Born November 30, 1923, in Highland Park, Illinois, Diana Denny Kalmus completed a BFA (1945) and MFA (1946) at the University of Pennsylvania. Winning two Cresson Scholarships enabled her to study art in Paris, Florence, and Spain. Her study of portraiture led her to try drawing political caricatures. Soon after selling four of her first caricature drawings to the Philadelphia Record, she was hired as a caricaturist for the Washington (DC) Daily News. Eventually joining the staff of the Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance, "Denny," as she came to be known professionally, had her drawings published in multiple newspapers, often on the front page, during the 1940s-1950s, and sometimes multiple times. These newspapers included the New York World-Telegram, Washington Daily News, Cleveland Press, Cincinnati Post, Columbus Citizen, San Francisco News, Rocky Mountain News (Denver), Indianapolis Times, Pittsburgh Press, Fort Worth Press, and Knoxville News Sentinel. Denny found considerable success in mainstream American newspapers at a time when women in her profession were rare. The needs of her growing family led her to leave the field in the early 1960s. She joined a printmaking studio in Washington DC, printed artists' editions, and taught. She remained artistically active in the areas of printmaking through the 1980s and continue to paint into the early 2000s. Diana Denny Kalmus died on January 28, 2015 in Mitchellville, Maryland.

Scope and Content Note

The collection contains original drawings, newspaper clippings, and graphic display items which document the decades-long career of Diana Denny. Included are caricatures of famous and historically significant people in the twentieth century and one drawing depicting the trials at Nuremberg after World War II. Denny depicts leading, mostly American, politicians in the late 1940s into the early 1960s. These include memorable portrayals of Nazi and American generals of WWII, world leaders, U.S. presidents, actors, writers, athletes, among others. The collection includes strong or unusual portrayals of Emperor Hirohito, Raúl and Fidel Castro, Hermann Goering, and Winston Churchill as well as images of prominent women such as Eleanor Roosevelt, Pat Nixon, and Evita Perón.

Series

Caricatures by Diana Denny, 1945-1961

Call No.: LOT 15162 (H)

LOT contains original drawings of caricatures and illustrations created by Diana Denny. Her work depicts many well-known individuals of the 20th century, in particular U.S. and foreign leaders, scientists, and popular figures such as celebrities and athletes.

Most drawings are arranged alphabetically by surname of the subject, with titles devised by Library staff rather than transcribed. Positions and professions are also devised by Library staff for individuals based on the approximate date that the drawings were made. In some instances multiple job titles for a person are listed when a more precise timeframe is unknown. However, the drawings in box 2, folder 4, were captioned and their titles are directly transcribed.

Newspaper Clippings and Graphic Display Items of Diana Denny, 1945-1961

Call No.: LOT 15163 (F)

LOT contains newspaper clippings representing a range of Denny's caricature work in Howard-Scripps Newspapers. Also included are proofs of caricatures printed onto paper, Mylar overlays, a metal printing plate, and related items that document the process of her work.

Drawing of Nuremberg Trial by Diana Denny, 1946

Call No.: LOT 15164 (OSE)

LOT contains a single drawing depicting the Nuremberg trials after World War II. The artist incorporated her impressions based on her own research studying newspaper articles and photographs of the trial and defendants.
