Processing History

The collection is an accrual of prints from many different sources that were brought together by Library staff sometime prior to 1989. The origin of the collection is unclear, but because the material was for many years controlled under the title "James T. Mitchell collection of American book illustrations" (known as the Stauffer Collection prior to 1955) the collection probably began as the material that remained after most of the Mitchell collection was processed into other series in the Prints and Photographs Division. Upon arrival at the Library the Mitchell collection consisted of an estimated 6,000 prints and there are fewer than 500 of them in this study collection. Prints from the Mitchell Collection are stamped "Stauffer Collection" on the back of the paper mounts to which they are adhered. Most also have the Stauffer number, the entry number cited in American Engravers upon Copper and Steel by David McNeely Stauffer, written on the front of the print though a few are lacking this number. Some of the other prints in the collection also have a Stauffer number written on the front of the print but are not part of the Mitchell Collection. It appears that a similarly unprocessed subset of the 1,991 American prints purchased by the Library in 1900 from the Goodspeed's Book Shop were added to this group of prints. These can be identified by a number in the range of 37127 to 37312 written on the back of the print. Both of these groups consisted almost entirely of steel or copper plate engravings. For unclear reasons, other prints from at least 36 other sources were added to the group introducing a small number of prints made by European engravers and a few woodcuts and lithographs.

The collection was processed by Nicholas Pernot and Brett Carnell in 2021. Finding aid encoded by Brett Carnell in 2021.

Preferred Citation

Researchers wishing to cite this collection should include the following information: Library of Congress, Prints & Photographs Division, Study collection of 18th and 19th-century American book illustrations and portrait prints, LOT 15199, and reproduction number, if available [e.g., LC-DIG-ppmsca-12345]

Scope and Content Note

The collection contains book illustrations and portrait prints from the late 18th and early 19th centuries created mainly by American engravers of English and western European descent but also by a few European engravers. The content of the prints includes portraits of American and European notables of the day, scenes depicting events described in books and periodicals, especially from the Bible, botanical and zoological prints and technical diagrams. This collection offers a breadth of examples to study American engraving in the late 18th and early 19th century. The collection of prints can be used to study a single engraver or to readily compare and contrast the work of various engravers. The prints are probably all duplicated elsewhere in the Library's collections. The book illustrations can be found in copies of the books held by the Library, where they can be better understood in their original context and most, if not all, of the portrait prints are available in the Prints and Photographs Division Biographical File. The collection is broader than it is deep with 274 of the 370 artists represented by ten or fewer prints. Only five artists are represented by more than 100 prints: George B. Ellis, James B. Longacre, Peter Maverick, Benjamin Tanner, and Cornelius Tiebout.

Arrangement

The collection is arranged by size into two series, "Smaller Prints" and "Larger Prints." The first series, Smaller Prints, includes engravers whose largest print is smaller than 11 x 14 inches. The second series, Larger Prints, includes engravers whose largest print, or the sheet it is mounted on, is smaller than 14 x 18 inches. Within each series the prints are arranged alphabetically by the name of the engraver with unidentified engravers at the end. Prints filed under an engravers' name haven't been researched to confirm they are actually by that engraver rather than by another engraver with a shared name.
